Birdwell Year 6

William Shakespeare

Birdwell Primary School

Monthly Archives: July 2020

Last Day!

Bye Year 6!

Posted on July 17, 2020 by | Leave a comment | Posted in

Hi Year 6

I just wanted to send you all and let you know I miss you. I miss you all. I miss your smiles and your laughter. I miss your hard work and your kindness. I miss your voices. I miss how we are as a whole.

I miss you all.

Mrs Clarke xx

For my amazing class!

Posted on July 17, 2020 by | Leave a comment | Posted in

Memories on Chime Bars

Posted on July 17, 2020 by | Leave a comment | Posted in

Today, we decided to learn to play our lessons using Memories on chime bars. This is dedicated to the rest of the class who couldn't be at school with us.

Penultimate day in our Year 6 Bubble.

Posted on July 17, 2020 by | Leave a comment | Posted in

Leaver Designs

T-Shirt Designing

Posted on July 17, 2020 by | Leave a comment | Posted in

Yesterday, if you hadn't an idea, what could which will mean, why not design yourself a T-shirt to celebrate leaving primary school, ending Lockdown, The end of Year 6 and the start of the rest of your life!

Here are some ideas

Search

CATEGORIES

- 3D / Design and Technology
- Computing
- Chapter
- Extra exercise
- Fancy wearing
- Geometry Team
- Important Information
- Library / Reading
- Maths
- Music
- PE
- Performance
- Trips
- Reading
- Science
- Social Media
- Science
- Spanish
- Sports Point
- STEM
- Tips
- Uncategorised

RECENT POSTS

- Leaver Dress up and photo
- Celebration Sitting
- Surviving our feelings
- T-Shirtdays Day
- Goodbyeing year at a time

Everyday heroes 1: What makes a hero?

Posted on April 20th by Annadhe in Stands Respect

Task 1: Art skill focus

Children (or teachers): We are going to trace a picture of them into the middle of your sheet of paper. BUT you cannot use black or pencil, you have to trace in the colour you can see. So if your hero's hair is blonde, trace their hair in yellow. If their cape is red, trace their cape in red… of course, if you trace something black, use your black pencil! Once you are done, shade in the colours.

Now, label the features and powers your superhero possesses.

Task 2:

Repeat the activity for someone in real life who you consider a hero. It could be a family member, someone in the community, an emergency worker or even someone you see in the newspaper!

Label their heroic qualities, such as hard work or kindness onto the sheet.

World Changers

Posted on April 20th by Annadhe in Stands Respect

Here are our pictures of people who changed the world with one of their famous quotes. Do you recognise who these important people are?

Online art lesson

Posted on April 20th by Annadhe in Resources Respect

Zoom meeting ID: 93671556710
Password: art

We are going to have a go at adapting a nice piece of artwork I've seen online to our People who changed the World topic.

You will need:

paper

pencil

thin and thick black pens (black biro, handwriting pens, felt tips and even black paint all work fine)

It would also help if you have a picture of Dr Martin Luther King Jr Available to draw from.

Monday Mystery Maths

Posted on April 20th by Annadhe in Monday Inspire

It's our last week, so this is our last Mystery to solve.

The Mystery of the Cinema Suspects

The Mystery of the Cinema Suspects

Please note: the answers are at the end of this sheet, so maybe ask someone to take the answers away so it doesn't spoil the fun!

Older posts

PROUDLY POWERED BY WORDPRESS. THEME: FASHIONO LIGHT BY DEVITHEME.