World Book Day

Posted on 4th March 2022 by birdwellmmathieson

We've had such a fantastic morning, we chose one of our favourite books and read for pleasure.

"This is the best day ever, can we have a nap and read!?" – I don't think that's possible!

Check us out below, reading in our pyjamas.

Inside the cave...

Posted on 3rd March 2022 by birdwellmmathieson

This afternoon, we put our art skills to the test.

We replicated a cave-like feel within our classroom so we could get a sense of what it was like drawing cave art in the Stone Age.

Some of us complained of stiff backs and necks, and even complained that we couldn't see what we were doing. Maybe we should have had a fire torch in the classroom!

Stone Age Cave Art

Posted on 2nd March 2022 by birdwellmmathieson

We have started our new topic in class this week. The Stone Age!

Our hook for the topic was Cave Art, we had a look at Cave Art and replicated the skills cavemen/ women would have used back in the Stone Age.

Keep your eyes peeled for us working in a cave-like, dark classroom.
